

COPPER HORSE VODKA

By Beluga Vodka Group

Copper Horse vodka produced by Beluga Group is made from 100% Russian wheat. It is produced in a unique 'copper cycle' The emphasis on copper in the vodka's name, Copper Horse, is reflected not only in the design, but also in the formula. It is a scientifically based chemical combination during the distillation process that improves the quality and taste of the final product. The vodka rests in vintage copper vats for three days before bottling, allowing the liquid to reach its ideal state and create the taste profile of a true artisan spirit.

About BELUGA GROUP..... is Russia's leading alcohol company, a major producer of vodka and distilled beverages and one of the main importers of strong spirits in the country. At the end of 2017, the "Synergy" company introduced the "Copper Horse" brand. The novelty is produced in the facilities of the Alviz plant, which has a hundred-year history. Before the advent of the automobile, products made at the manufactory were transported through inns and hostels by carts pulled by horses.
